

FINANCIAL SERVICES COMMUNICATIONS SPECIALISTS

Building Brands | Driving Growth

It all starts with the brand. To stand out in today’s crowded marketplace, financial services companies need a brand that is clear and compelling. BackBay helps financial services firms build unique brands through research, positioning, design, and strategic integrated marketing programs.

Integrated content-driven marketing campaigns are more important than ever. They provide consistency of brand message across multiple print and digital mediums and underscore expertise.

The heart of our mission is helping our clients tell their stories.

As a specialist in working with financial services firms, BackBay has a deep understanding of the industry and is able to help clients identify and articulate their key differentiators and value propositions. We then capture and convey those attributes through compelling content and utilize a full complement of integrated advertising, branding, content marketing, public relations, social media and website development services.
